Endoscopic Linear Cutter

TrioTM Reloads

ONE SOLUTION Across a broad range of tissue thicknesses

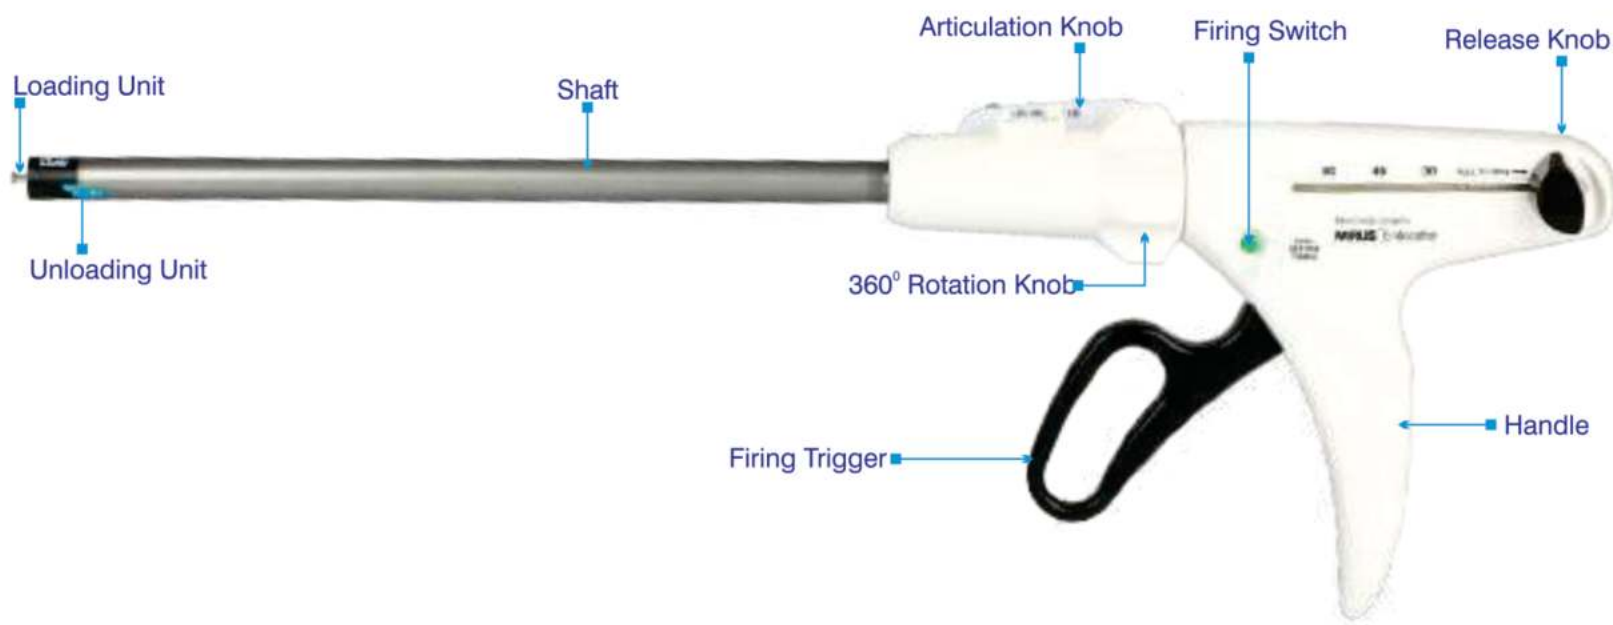

MIRUS™ Endoscopic Linear Cutter

Optimal Tissue Management System

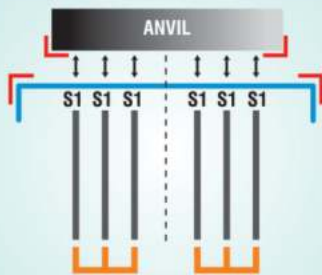

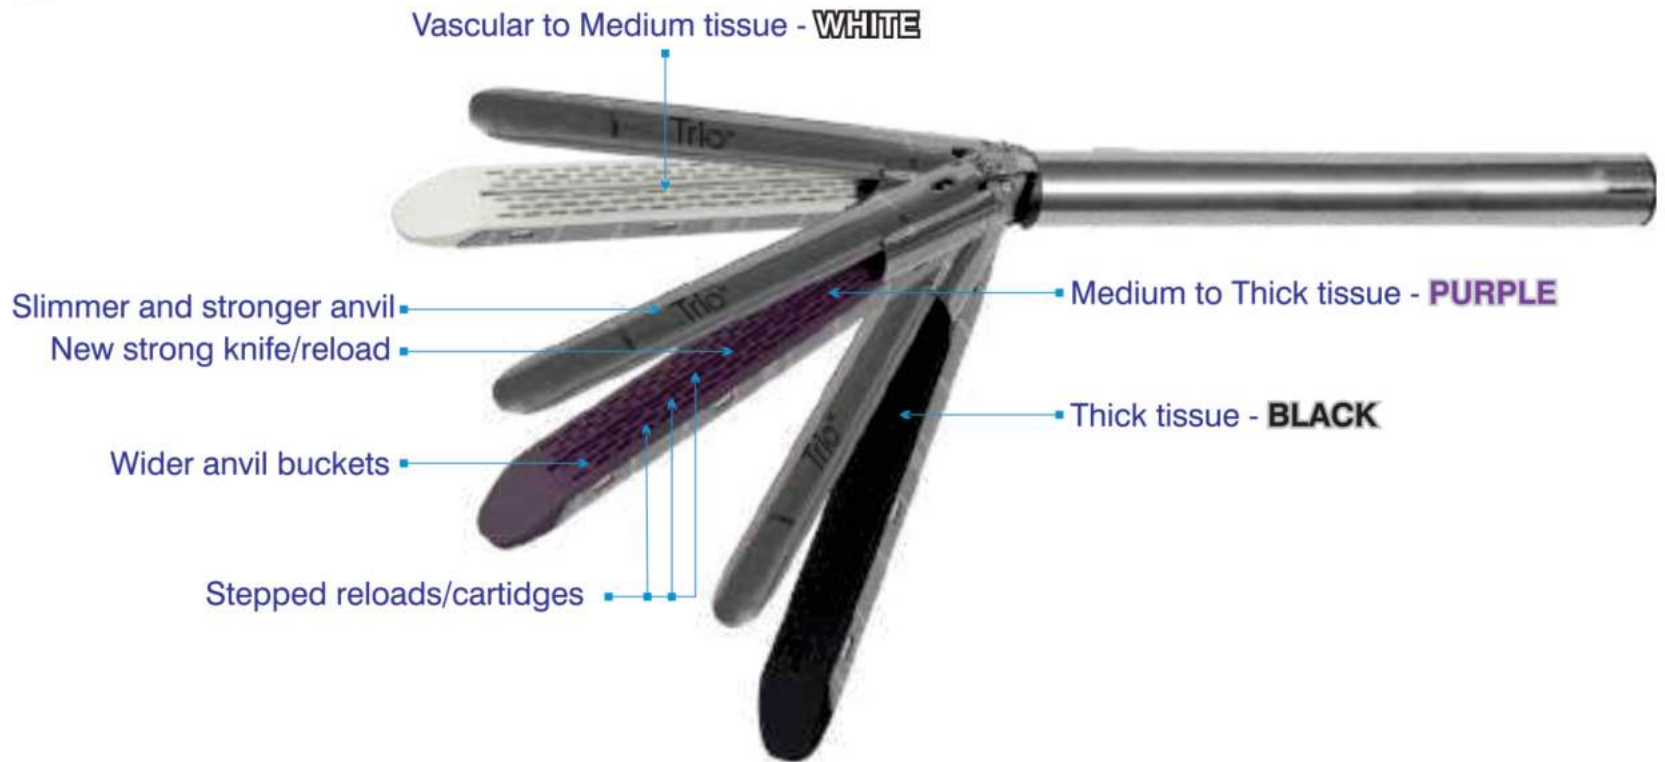

Tissue thickness present a unique challenge when stapling laparoscopically. Endocutters are designed to mitigate the forces placed on them during firing based on the tissue thicknesses in order to provide consistent staple formation and transect intended tissues. However, as tissue thickness varies across the body, we need One solution across a broad range of tissue thicknesses and simplifying the cartridge selection process with optimal compression has been a critical need for many surgeons.

Meril Endo-Surgery introduces “MIRUS™” Endoscopic Linear Cutter with “Trio™ Reloads”

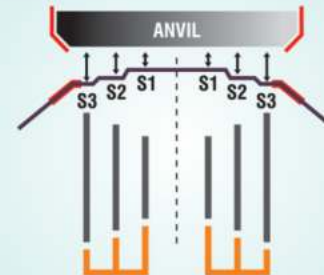

Trio™ Reloads

Current Technology:

1. Uniform staple heights
2. Uniform compression to cut line
3. High tissue stress along outer row

Trio Technology:

1. Varied height staples
2. Optimal compression of the tissue with no trauma
3. Lower tissue stress along outer row
4. Improves Perfusion to the cutline
5. New knife with every reload
